

Goering Deceives All Germans Must Aid 4-Year Plan

Field Marshal With Pen Stroke Makes All Able-
Bodied Men and Women
Subject to State Labor

Begins July 1

Acute Labor Shortage Threatens Program—In War Theatres

Berlin, June 24 (AP)—Germany's economic dictator, Field Marshal Hermann Goering, with the stroke of his pen has revolutionized Germany's labor conditions and placed the burden for success of his four-year plan on the shoulders of every-able-bodied German man and woman.

The decree, effective July 1, makes all subject to labor for the state and in interpreted in official circles as a decisive step toward forestalling slackening of work especially on Reichsfuehrer Hitler's building program.

An acute labor shortage has threatened this program, which was inaugurated June 14 when Hitler laid the cornerstone of the first of a series of new structures to rebuild Berlin. The Berlin program alone is estimated to cost $1,440,000,000.

Possible Over-lapping
While emphasis was laid on economic aspects of the four-year plan, it is a part, a propaganda ministry spokesman admitted, possibly the plan might overlap military projects to the point where erection of barracks and airports was involved.

This, however, referred chiefly to Austria, where Goering ordered work under his four-year plan to begin May 13.

Economic incorporation of Austria into the Reich is to be pushed ahead full speed, and innumerable subsidiary decrees have been issued since Anschluss to adapt Austrian economy to requirements of the four-year plan.

Germany's efforts at self-sufficiency have been under way since 1936, and, greater, chiefly, on efficient exploitation of ore, coal and iron deposits, the production of synthetic gasoline and rubber and the discovery of other substitutes for foreign raw materials.

The spokesman in the Reich's labor office explained that, although details of execution of Goering's order are not yet available, efforts first will be directed toward rapid reduction of unemployment in Austria.

In War Theatres
Japanese troops took the Oriental war to the South China mainland today, while on the opposite side of the world Spain's insurgents made new advances in the drive toward Valencia.

The insurgents closed in about the town of Sarrión, about 50 miles northwest of Valencia, and government forces retreated southward down the highway to the Mediterranean city. Along the coast, the insurgents were able to advance a mile despite strong government defenses along the Seco river, 35 miles north of Valencia.

A Japanese South China force reached Chialin after making a landing from Nansai Island, 20 miles east of Swatow, under a heavy protective barrage. Swatow was bombed heavily.

Chinese retreated at first but in later counterattacks stalled the Japanese advance. On the North China front, there was sluggish, ineffective fighting with the army of Nippon's drive toward Hankow slowed to a snail's pace.

On the diplomatic firing line, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain made known Spanish insurgents again had been requested to make an explanation of repeated aerial attacks on British merchant ships.

Charles Hostile Government
Woodstock, Vt., June 24 (AP)—Asserting that every business and profession in this country was face to face with a hostile government and public, James W. Hook, president of the New England Council, an organization for development of New England, said today business must rededicate itself to the task of making its usefulness better known.

Hook, at the council's quarterly meeting, contended there was no substitute for hard work as one of the best roads to independence.

Scarlett Goes Free
New York, June 24 (AP)—Daniel Scarlett, a free man today because his mother is ill. Scarlett pleaded to a conspiracy to smuggle narcotics into the United States and had been sentenced to one year and one day in prison and fined $500. Federal Judge Murray Hulbert set aside the penalty yesterday, noting the illness of Scarlett's mother and the burial today of his brother, Havenworth penitentiary inmate.

Wagoners Modernized Civil Service
Washington, June 24 (AP)—Chairman Ramspeck (D-Ga.) of the House Civil Service Committee said today President Roosevelt should modernize the Civil Service System by executive order rather than by legislation. That method, he said, would accomplish the things Mr. Roosevelt tried to do for the Civil Service by executive reorganization bill.

Son Central Figure In Haugwitz Rift

Little Lance Haugwitz-Reventlow, son of the former Barbara Hutton and Count Kurt Haugwitz-Reventlow, accompanied by a nurse and Jimmie Donahue, Barbara's cousin, pushes a kiddie car on the grounds of Winfield House, the American five-and-ten heires' mansion in London, seemingly not much concerned over the rift which has barred his father and mother. Friends of the couple said they differed over plans for the boy's education but the Count and his father-in-law, Franklin Hutton, were in Paris trying to patch up the break. This picture was radioed to New York from London.

Appellate Group Denies Motion in Quick Case Trial

Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp. Cannot Carry Litigation Before State
Court of Appeals

The Appellate Division, Third Department, has handed down a determination denying a motion of the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp. for permission to reargue its case against Herbert M. Quick of Marlborough, Ulster county. Application for leave to appeal the case to the Court of Appeals has also been denied by the utility company, according to a special dispatch from Albany to The Freeman.

Recently the Appellate Division unanimously upheld an award of $45,335.56 made in Ulster county Supreme Court to 14-year-old Herbert Quick, against the company, for injuries received by the boy in 1935 when a flash-over occurred on a transformer sub-station of the company.

Contention of Briefs
According to the briefs submitted in the case, the boy on Feb. 1, 1935, was playing on the transformer.

Award in Bull Case Lowered by Branch Of Appellate Court

Albany, June 24 (Special)—The Appellate Division, Third Department, has handed down a decision reducing an award of $8,152.50 obtained by Hood Farms Inc., against Miss Grace V. Roberts, who conducted a dairy farm at Highland, under an agreement for lease of a pure bred Jersey bull. The reduction made by the Appellate Division brings damages down to $2,250.

The decision comes as the result of an appeal brought by Miss Roberts from the award made in Ulster county supreme court in favor of Hood Farms, Inc. According to the records in the case, on November 5, 1917, the company's assignor, Charles L. Hood, who raised pedigreed Jersey cattle, entered into a lease with Miss Roberts, who conducted a dairy farm at Highland.

Under the lease, in consideration of renting the bull, Miss Roberts agreed to give it good care and treatment, insure it against death, and deliver each year to Hood five heifer calves sired by the bull, Toronto.

Counsel for the company claimed Miss Roberts failed to live up to the agreement. In her counterclaim, Miss Roberts charged that by reason of "misrepresentation" her herd of cattle was damaged. Through her attorney, Robert E. Whalen, of Albany, she asked the judgment be reversed and that she be awarded $2,400 damages.

According to defense briefs, Toronto was described as a "magnificent animal." Miss Roberts contended that when he arrived he was fat and had to undergo a reducing treatment. Then, she alleged, he developed a "away back" which denotes "lack of constitutional vigor." Her attorney, in his brief, stated that the bull was "ignominiously" shot in 1934.

F. L. Hutton Denies Serious Friction Between Daughter and Danish Count

Paris, June 24 (AP)—Franklyn L. Hutton said today he would make another effort this afternoon to smooth difficulties between his daughter, Barbara, and her husband, Count Kurt Haugwitz-Reventlow.

Hutton announced he had arranged a new conference with the count, who, after a short absence from his hotel, returned alone and went directly to his room.

Hutton again denied reports that friction was serious over conflicting wishes of the Count and Countess concerning their son's education.

"There is too much nonsense going around about the whole affair," Hutton said.

In London a banker and a lawyer beat an early morning path to the guarded home of blonde Countess Barbara Hutton Haugwitz-Reventlow today.

With a British magistrate's order standing between the American-born heiress and the noble Dane she married, the Countess received Sir John Milbank, head of the trust which controls part of her fortune.

The weary solicitor, William Mitchell, also arrived at Winfield House in Regent's Park on the heels of the milkman—at 8 a. m.

Sir John's visit caused watchers to wonder if the Countess were not considering some new disposal of part of her five-and-ten cent store millions.

In fact, friends of the heiress said there was some question whether the differences between them had not gone so far that a reconciliation would be impossible.

The possibility was mentioned that Hutton might give up temporarily his diplomatic efforts in Paris and go to London today to talk matters over with Barbara.

She was known to be feeling the strain to such an extent that she called in Lord Horder, physician-in-ordinary to the King, yesterday. The possibility was he would make another call today.

Uncle Sam Marketing
For 2 Million Families
Washington, June 24 (AP)—Uncle Sam is food-shopping for more than 2,000,000 American families.

Under an expanded program designed to increase use of farm surplus, agents of the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation are moving into markets in all sections of the country.

They are buying peaches in Georgia, fresh vegetables in New England and Middle Atlantic States, dairy and poultry products and flour in the mid-west, rice and tobacco in the south, and citrus fruit in Pacific coast states.

Their expenditures in June alone are expected to total about $17,000,000. Agriculture department officials said purchases in the next 12 months may exceed $100,000,000. The money comes from customs receipts.

The food is sent to relief agencies and distributed by WPA labor.

State Approves
City Laboratories
The Kingston City Laboratory and the laboratories in the Kingston and Benedictine Hospitals have been approved by the state health department for the complement-fixation tests for syphilis.

Under the state law which becomes effective July 1, all prospective brides and grooms before they can obtain a wedding license must take a test 20 days prior to the issuing of the license by the city clerk. A certificate from the laboratory must be presented to the city clerk when they apply for a license to wed.

88-Year-Old Necktie
Richfield, Pa., June 24 (AP)—Jacob Shellenberger donned a 53-year-old necktie to celebrate his 53rd wedding anniversary. It was part of his attire when he was married. "A bit faded, but I'm proud of it," he said.

Medill McCormick Is Missing Today In Wild Mountains

Scion of Prominent Families
Left Home Wednesday Morning at Albuquerque to Go on Hiking Trip

Posses Search

Mrs. Simms, Mother, Hopes
Youth and Companion
Made Camp

Albuquerque, N. M., June 24 (AP)—Medill McCormick, 21-year-old scion of families famous in American publishing and statesmanship, was missing today, feared lost in the rugged Sandia Mountains ten miles east of Albuquerque.

The son of Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms and the late U. S. Senator Medill McCormick of Chicago, left home Wednesday morning with a companion on a hiking trip and has not returned, his mother said early today.

Posses of CCC enrollees, headed by state police and sheriff's deputies, spread into the jagged Sandias in the search for young McCormick and his friend, Richard Whitmer, son of the late T. E. Whitmer, Albuquerque lumberman.

"Naturally we are getting a little restless," said Mrs. Simms, keeping vigil late in the night at her country estate, Los Poblanos.

On Hikes Frequently
"We knew they would be gone one day, possibly two, but we expected to hear from them before this. However, they went on hikes frequently, as often as once a week, and they knew how to take care of themselves in the mountains."

Both Mrs. Simms and her husband, Albert G. Simms, Albuquerque attorney, expressed belief the youths might have been caught in heavy rain which swept the mountains late Wednesday, and made camp in a sheltered canyon.

They were at a loss, however, to explain why they did not return when the storm cleared yesterday.

Mrs. Simms said her son and young Whitmer left early Wednesday in the latter's small automobile, apparently intending to drive into the mountains, then get out and hike.

"No trace of the car has been found," she said, "leading us to believe they might have taken a little used route. We do not know exactly what their plans were."

Officers in charge of the search were non-committal, but it was learned they had spread the hunt into other sections of the state.

Mrs. Simms, wealthy daughter of the late Mark Hanna and former Republican Congresswoman from Illinois, has devoted most of her time recently to her many business activities and to the Sandia School for Girls, which she founded here.

Lehman Demands
State Relief Purge
In Speech Today
Saratoga Inn, N. Y., June 24 (AP)—Demand for a purge from New York state relief rolls of all those "not entitled to such assistance" was sounded by Governor Herbert H. Lehman in his first public address since announcing his candidacy for the United States Senate.

"There are undoubtedly persons now in receipt of public assistance who are not entitled to such assistance, and I have been greatly concerned with this problem over the years," the governor told the annual conference of the New York State Public Welfare Officials Association here last night.

"However few there be, it is our bounden duty to see to it that the relief rolls of the communities are valid and that the rights of the taxpayer and the local and state corporate bodies are secure and protected," the former international banker added.

Lehman, who announced he would be a candidate for the Democratic nomination to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator Royal S. Copeland if the party wants him, cited what he said were the dangers of relief spending.

Treasury Receipts
Washington, June 24 (AP)—The position of the treasury on June 22: Receipts $17,011,096.49; expenditures $16,667,379.88; net balance $2,355,667,425.00, including $1,769,671,841.04 working balance; customs receipts for the month, $16,153,247.71. Receipts for the fiscal year (since July 1), $6,157,833,684.78; expenditures $7,528,246,534.15, including $4,108,158,829.61 of emergency expenditures; excess of expenditures, $1,381,942,829.37; gross debt $37,125,384,240.82; a decrease of $47,225,247.15 from the previous day; gold assets $12,856,390,452.93.

Gets Until Monday.
Trenton, N. J., June 24 (AP)—Frank O. W. Briggs of Forked River, inkeeper and justice of the peace, has until Monday to file a social security tax report or run the risk of being punished for contempt of court. Briggs was haled before Federal Judge Philip Forman yesterday after government attorneys said he had resisted for eight months treasury department demands that he report his tax liability to the internal revenue collector at Camden.

30 Chicago Fires
Chicago, June 24 (AP)—Thirty fires in the Chicago Lawn district put the whole community on edge. Since the first of the year groups of citizens have been patrolling streets and alleys by night in search of the firebug. Among them has been Edward Ronzak, 21. Today Ronzak was in jail. Mal Coughlin, assistant state's attorney, said Ronzak confessed he was the firebug.

President Returns To Capital to Work On 'Fireside Chat'

Chief Executive Will Talk to Nation Tonight at 9:30
Standard Time—Speech
to Be Twelfth

Washington, June 24 (AP)—President Roosevelt's "fireside chat" tonight will give the country a report on whether a special session of Congress is likely.

The President, asked at his press conference whether a special session was probable, told reporters that they would get the answer from his address to the nation this evening.

Returns to Capital
Washington, June 24 (AP)—President Roosevelt traveled back to Washington today to give impetus to his campaign for business improvement by a "fireside chat" to the nation.

He was expected also to devote considerable time to completing his radio address, which will be broadcast over the NBC, CBS and Mutual networks at 9:30 p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

12th Fireside Chat
The speech will be his twelfth "fireside chat" since he took office in 1933. It will give him his first opportunity since the start of the $3,753,000,000 spending-lending program to discuss formally the prospects for early gains in business and industry.

He probably will review the administration's "pump-priming" campaign, which got actively under way this week with approval of several batches of public works projects. PWA allocated $61,342,346 yesterday in loans and grants to states and municipalities, bringing total allotments to $139,156,974.

Locks' Proposal
Secretary Jones, resuming his duties as PWA administrator after a European honeymoon, proposed that the agency be made permanent.

"The way we have started this program convinces me that we should always have a backlog of projects," he said, declaring it would permit quick action in any future depressions.

Tonight's speech will mark the beginning of a busy summer season for Mr. Roosevelt. In the next two weeks he is to make four out-of-town addresses and complete arrangements for a politically significant journey across the continent to San Francisco.

Meanwhile he must sign or disapprove 175 bills which Congress passed last week. He also must complete the organization of such newly authorized agencies as the wage-hour division of the labor department and the independent civil aeronautics authority.

8 Persons Killed
As Oil Well Bomb
Fires Prematurely
Hobbs, N. M., June 24 (AP)—Public and private investigators opened inquiries today into the mysterious premature explosion of an oil well time-bomb, which dealt horrible death to eight persons, one a prominent New Mexico financier, and injured four others.

The blast snuffed out the lives of George A. Kaseman, 63-year-old Albuquerque banker, and seven oil workers whom he was watching yesterday as they prepared to "shoot" a well in the rich Monument Field, about 20 miles southwest of Hobbs.

Kaseman, prominent in New Mexico business circles for 47 years, was president of the Albuquerque National Trust and Savings Bank, and of the Albuquerque and Cerrillos Coal Company.

He was financially interested in the Monument well and had come with a party of friends to witness the "shooting" operation, designed to increase its production.

The bomb, loaded with nitroglycerin and operated by an automatic timing mechanism, was to have been lowered into the well, where it might shatter the underground rock structure and allow the oil to flow more freely.

Instead, it exploded with a terrific detonation as the workmen removed it from a truck.

Instantly killed were Kaseman, H. A. Greer, gauger for the shooting crew; J. T. Broughton, derrickman; Forrest Huston, and Charles Whitley, riggerman; V. P. Peck, the writer, and Alex Blair, shooter's helper.

Albany, N. Y., June 24 (AP)—The mercury continued to dwell above the 80 degree mark today as upstate New York experienced its fifth successive day of heat to which seven deaths have been indirectly attributed.

At Albany, the Weather Bureau predicted "little change in temperature." The official temperature at 10 a. m., E. S. T., was 83 degrees, the same as at that hour yesterday.

Albany's maximum temperature yesterday was 91 degrees. Temperatures of 90 or above were reported in the usually cool Adirondack mountain section for the second successive day. These included 96 at Lake Placid, 94 at Whiteface and 90 at Schroon Lake and Northville.

9 Persons Killed In Montana Valley By Flood Waters

Thousands of Dollars Worth of Property Damaged as Cloudburst Sends Milk
River on Rampage

Have, Mont., June 24 (AP)—Homeless farmers, beleaguered by flood waters in the valley flats of the Milk river in north-central Montana, braced today against the onrushing tide that has taken nine lives, left one missing and damaged thousands of dollars worth of property.

The flood waters were rushing toward Malta, east of Have, on the swollen Milk river where flood stage is expected today.

Farmers gave up their homes yesterday in the valley flats as the cloudburst-widened river struck at Harlem, 60 miles above Malta.

"Flash Floods"
Raging ranging to cloudburst proportions has pounded over every section of Montana in 24 hours, creating "flash floods" similar to the Custer creek flood that weakened a trestle through which a Milwaukee railroad train plunged early Sunday, killing an estimated 46.

Eight victims were pulled from Gravelly Coulee near Laredo, south of Have yesterday. A wall of water 20 feet high drove gulches 40 feet deep in the coulee.

The dead are: Emil De Haan, his wife, and three daughters, aged 2, 5 and 8; Charles Pratt, a farmer; Herman Wendt; Fred Tilghman, 60, of Hogeland, and James Brown, Duluth, Minn., employed on De Haan's ranch.

An infant daughter of the De Haans is still missing.

Workers avoided through mud and debris attempting to repair damage to tracks of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads near Zurich, 20 miles above Harlem.

Carle and the girl walked about 150 feet into Smith avenue, from Albany avenue, when the stranger appeared and jabbed a gun into the small of Carle's back.

"Walk natural," growled the man to Carle as he jabbed the gun into the youth's back.

As they approached the girl house where Carle had parked his father's new Hudson car, the stranger asked "Is that your car?"

Carle replied that it was and the stranger forced the youth and girl to get into the car. He entered and the three crowded into the front seat with Carle behind the steering wheel.

The stranger ordered Carle to get going and drive out toward Lake Katrine.

He displayed the gun prominently and said he would shoot if they did not obey his commands.

Climbed Over Fence
Driving out the Saugerties road they turned into the Lake Katrine road and into the old road that leads direct to the lake. The road is through a woods. In a lonely spot the stranger forced Carle to stop the car and commanded the youth and the girl to alight.

There is a high wire fence alongside the road and he forced the youth and girl to climb over the fence as he threatened them with a revolver.

Proceeding into the woods some 500 feet from the road he forced Carle to stand with his back against a tree and then proceeded to rope Carle to the tree.

Took Off Stockings
The stranger commanded the girl to take off her stockings. As she complied with the demand he used his handkerchief to gag young Carle and tied the gag in place by using one of the girl's stockings. Leaving Carle tied firmly to the tree and unable to call for help he drove the girl ahead of him further into the woods.

Assaulted the Girl
About 1,000 feet back from the road he brutally assaulted the girl after tearing her clothes from her back, and after tying her up left her lying on the ground and walked back past where Carle was still tied to the tree.

Carle in the meantime had made every effort to free himself but was unsuccessful. As the man passed Carle he said "I will leave your car where we found it on Smith avenue," and then climbing over the fence he got into the car and drove back to Kingston.

Baptists to Unite With Presbyterians

The First Baptist Church on Albany avenue and the First Presbyterian Church on Elmendorf street will unite for Sunday services during the months of July and August.

Services will be held during July in the First Presbyterian Church, with the Rev. Arthur S. Cole, of the First Baptist Church, as the preacher.

During August the services will be held in the First Baptist Church and will be conducted by the Rev. William J. McVey, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church.

This is the 22nd consecutive summer that these two churches have united during the summer months.

Discusses Plan
London, June 24 (AP)—The nonintervention in Spain subcommittee today discussed a plan for eight permanent observation posts in Spain to help choke the flow of foreign arms into the country. How many observers each post will have was not disclosed, but the plan will embrace sea entrances to both sides of Spain.

The Shawangunk team defeated the Crawford team by the score of 21 to 12. The "Shawangunks," who have defeated the Montgomery team, are the champions and will eat in the near future, a beefsteak dinner at the expense of the losers. Pitchers' names were drawn from a hat with Pete Terwilliger, Wilbur Van Wyck, James Crowell, and George Crist pitching for Shawangunk and George Decker, George Carman, Edward Decker, Earl Dickerson and Charles Crist, Jr., for Crawford. Others who played on the Shawangunk team were Kelo Sloan, Edward Murray, Daniel Van Alst, George Hammesfahr, Lester Mack and Andrew Burkshaw. On the Crawford team were E. Scott, Dr. Van Amburgh, R. Wendland, J. Youngblood, G. Maler and R. Bartlett.

To Broadcast Salutatory
Orchard Park, N. Y., June 24 (AP)—Lois Bassett's address as salutatorian of her class will be heard over a loud speaker at high school graduation here Tuesday—broadcast from her bed at home. Miss Bassett, who has been ill in bed several years, was awarded the office of class salutatorian after she attained the second highest scholastic standing in the class through study in bed at home. Principal Lawrence C. Johnson said he and a committee from the class would present her diploma at her home.

To Search for Children
South Bend, Ind., June 24 (AP)—Mrs. Roberta Watters, 29, former New York ship's nurse, free today of second degree murder charges, planned a search for her two missing children over whose custody a quarrel resulted, ending in the fatal shooting of Mrs. Martha Watters, 68, mother-in-law of the acquitted woman. A jury of eight men and four women in St. Joseph circuit court took one hour and 46 minutes to return an innocent verdict last night to end the six-day trial.

The Folies-Bergere in Paris was founded in 1869.

What Is Your News I. Q.?

By The AP Feature Service

Each question counts 20; each part of a two-part question, 10. A score of 60 is fair; 80, good.

1. Who is this American tennis player, called by sports writers "Little Feller"?
2. Name two pairs of South American nations involved in boundary disputes.
3. Gandia is (a) the Lindebergh's new home in France; (b) a nationalist leader in India; (c) a British-owned port in Spain?
4. What is the beginning minimum wage set in the wage-hour bill as finally worked out by the House-Senate conference committee?
5. Since it was the G-Men who "broke" the Cash kidnapping case, the suspected kidnapper will be tried in federal court. True or false?

News I. Q. Answers

1. Helen Wills Moody.
2. Ecuador vs. Peru; Bolivia vs. Paraguay.
3. A British-owned port in Spain.
4. Twenty-five cents an hour.
5. False. The G-Men turned their evidence over to local authorities.

Oil heat at surprisingly low cost

wherever this "skinflint" burner is installed

That's what home owners say about the Model P Petro & Nokoi Oil Burner. For no other burner has "Tubular Atomization" that produces lazy, quiet, more efficient soft flame combustion, resulting in greater heat release in the burning of the fuel.

Build for small home heating plants, this Petro & Nokoi knows just how to squeeze every drop of fuel oil heat-dry. It's a "chiseler" that trims fuel oil bills.

See it. Priced today at bedrock, even though costs are rising. Install now, start paying next fall.

THE FIRE SEASON IS HERE

Fire is always dangerous but it is doubly dangerous in summer. Vacant lots and fields, if left uncut, are ready to burst into flame at the touch of a match. Woodlands are drying out and when this dehydrating process reaches a certain stage, trees will literally explode when attacked by fire and start conflagrations that may extend over tens of thousands of acres. Because of the exceptionally large number of fires attributed to smokers, hunters, campers and fishermen, Conservation Commissioner Osborne has issued an urgent appeal to these and all other persons planning to visit the forested areas in the course of the next few months to exercise extreme care at all times.

Fires can be prevented and easily prevented if all will help. When traveling about never throw matches outdoors, never build fires near trees or other inflammables and never leave a fire until it has been thoroughly extinguished, preferably with both water and dirt. Obey the fire laws as they were made for your protection, not to annoy you.

The greatest tragedy of fire is that it is almost always unnecessary. Every year we burn up resources and property valued at hundreds of millions of dollars. We destroy thousands of lives. The direct fire loss runs into the billions and is reflected in unemployment, less business, reduced spending power. This toll is the result of carelessness, ignorance or just plain laziness. It may be that the unpreventable fire exists, but it is a very rare exception indeed. Human failure underlies at least nine fires out of ten.

RE-ARMING PACIFISTS

One of the discouraging things about the present world armament race is that nations which had gone far along the road to disarmament have been compelled to turn about and march again along the more costly and perilous road to heavy armament. The Scandinavian countries are enlarging their armies and developing their navies as they have not done for many years.

Switzerland, protected in the past by its mountains, has been able to get along without a standing army. Today it is adding to its traditional militia a small permanent force. The modern war preparations of its neighbors seem to make such action necessary. Swiss defense reorganization provides smaller, more mobile divisions, with special attention to machine gun and anti-tank units. It is building up also an air force of 300 planes, and preparing primarily to block highways and ward off enemy aircraft.

The Scandinavians, the Netherlands and the Swiss all know that military preparations on a big scale take money away from important constructive enterprises. They believe in more rational, thrifter use of their resources. But in the present state of European madness, they are driven to abandon their normal ways in order to protect themselves against the frankly aggressive powers.

SOUTH AMERICA IS BUYING

Our foreign trade with Europe is nothing to brag of lately, but our Latin-American trade is doing very well. And this in spite of the difficulties caused by political troubles in Mexico. The head of the foreign banking branch of a big midwestern bank reports that 60 per cent of the exports handled by his department last year went to South America, and of them 90 per cent were taken by two countries.

"There are 100,000,000 people down there," he says, "and I do think our trade future lies there. Argentina and Brazil are our very good markets. Uruguay and Peru are next. Brazil has always cooperated with this country. Just a few weeks ago they abrogated their barter treaty with Germany. The market is competitive, but we excel and have first preference. I think we can look for a fairly normal trade development. The good will this nation has been generating there is not in vain."

Contrary to a general belief, he adds, such business is not risky. The credit losses on Latin-American trade are very small. The credit losses on Latin-American trade are very small. The credit losses on Latin-American trade are very small.

can capital, invested in doubtful Latin-American bonds, in which our people used to lose so much money.

INCOME

The federal Commerce Department reports the national income last year as $69,800,000,000. Call it $70,000,000,000. That was only about $10,000,000,000 less than the all-time record in 1929. Then came the big slump. When shall we equal last year again? The President said, before this slump began, that the country could and should have an income of $100,000,000,000 a year. It might be a reasonable expectation if we regained a business activity equalling that of the first half of 1929, and prices on a level with that period.

It would mean a big climb from where we are now—somewhere around the 60-billion level and still going down. It took us five years to rise to 70 billions from the bottom of 40 billions in 1932. Yet our facilities for production and distribution are greatly increased. In spite of pessimistic forecasts of a long depression, we might rise with surprising rapidity when the time came for the next boom.

Premier Aberhart, Alberta's political peach, isn't doing so well with his "social credit" plan. The farther he goes, the less credit there is.

When Sir Archibald Sinclair tells the British House of Commons that the world seems to be "floundering back to a slump," isn't he a little mixed in his English?

Most governments nowadays seem to make it their main business to open other people's letters. Freedom of the mails goes along with other freedoms.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act) NERVOUSNESS PLUS INFECTION

A business man found himself becoming very irritable about the office—nothing being done right—driving the car—every other driver was at fault. He noticed also that about two hours after he ate a meal he had a pain in the stomach which was relieved only when he took some baking soda, drank some milk, or ate some food. When he consulted his physician and gave him the above history the physician told him he thought it was a stomach ulcer, which the X-ray proved was correct.

The physician put him on a soft diet and prescribed alkaline medicines which gave relief; he told the patient however that there were likely two things causing the ulcer, one of which was his own high strung nervous disposition and the other some infection—likely the teeth. An X-ray of the teeth showed the roots of two teeth so badly infected that they had to be removed.

Rest, soft food, removal of infected teeth, brought about the cure at this time but his physician told him that if he didn't learn to control himself, to take things a little more easily, to relax more, any little infection in his system, added to his tense disposition, would likely "grow" another ulcer.

However, this nervous tense disposition even when no infection is present can cause symptoms closely resembling ulcer of the stomach. I have spoken before of the patient whose symptoms closely resembled ulcer but X-ray showed that while no ulcer was present the rhythm or regularity of the stomach movements (churning the food) was greatly upset in that the movements would occur in rapid succession for a few minutes, then stop altogether for a time, perhaps become regular and normal, and then occur rapidly and irregularly again. A straight questioning by the physician revealed the fact that the patient was trying to handle a difficult domestic problem. When this problem was solved or settled, the symptoms disappeared entirely.

The point then is that while high strung nervous, slender individuals are more likely to develop stomach ulcers, there must be an underlying cause, usually some infection, but any severe emotional disturbance, if continued for any time, may cause not only symptoms similar to ulcer, but true ulcer itself.

HEALTH BOOKLETS AVAILABLE

Eight helpful booklets by Dr. Barton are now available for readers of the Freeman. They are: Eating Your Way to Health; Why Worry About Your Heart?; Neurosis, The Common Cold; Overweight and Underweight; Allergy or Being Sensitive to Foods and Other Substances; Scourge (gonorrhea and syphilis); and How Is Your Blood Pressure? These booklets may be obtained by sending ten cents for each one desired to The Bell Library, 247 West 43rd Street, New York, N. Y., mentioning the name of this newspaper.

OCTAGON HOUSE

BY PHOEBE ATWOOD TAYLOR

The Story So Far: Asey Mayo, Cape Cod detective, is investigating the murder of Marina Lorne, whose husband's post office mural has enraged Quasmod. She was killed by a left handed blow from the knife of her sister Pam Frye. Interested parties are: Tim Corry, once married to Marina; Roddy Street, whose alibiing plane crash was deliberate; Peggy Boone, an artist; Jennings, an Irish plumber; and persons unknown who burned down the Frye's barn, bigged Asey, Tim, and Pam's father, destroyed Jack Lorne's mural sketches and defaced the mural itself. Missing is a $50,000 lamp of emeralds belonging to Pam. Then Roddy disappears, and the biffer turns out to be Jennings, who says he is very sorry.

Chapter 43

Asey Is Wrong

"BUT the barn burning, Jennings!" said Tim. "And the contents of the barn. You'll have quite a time before the Fryes forgive you that—"

"How'd you know about the contents of the barn?" Asey asked sharply.

"Pam told me, She—"

"She did?" Asey sighed. "Has she told everyone? An' I give her credit for so much sense?"

"I think she was sensible," Tim said. "And anyway, the stuff's gone. But it'll take more than pipes him, you believe every word he says? You don't seem to think it matters, what he did to me, and my drawings, and all? You're in league with him—"

"Would you," Asey asked with a purr in his voice, "like another spanking? Would you?"

"Well," Lorne said, "well, why do you uphold him?"

"I don't! I'd figured what part the biffer played, an' I was right. I worried for fear he might really be after Roddy, but he's proved that's all Roddy an' Carveth, puttin' on an act. Now, Lorne, take the advice of the old Philistine, an' pipe down. Tim, what become of the trooper you brought over?"

"He's outside. I didn't know until he popped in," Timothy said, "that Jennings was here. I told the trooper to go outside and keep watch. He's there now, I suppose—"

"Who is he?"

"No one I ever saw before."

"That's a relief," Asey said. "If it was Shorty or O'Malley, Jennings might have his hands full. Coming over to see Pam an' Aaron?"

Jennings squared his shoulders. "Uh-huh."

"Harry"

OVER at Octagon House, Pam greeted them wearily.

"Don't speak above a whisper," she said. "We just got Aaron asleep—I don't know if Cummings gave and a tiled bath to make Aaron and Pam forget. Why did you burn the barn, Jennings? Why didn't you burn two other barns?"

"But I didn't burn any!" Jennings said.

Tim looked at Asey.

"Jennings hit you," Asey said, "an' then started for Lorne's. On the way he laid out the troopers—what'd you use, your bare fist?"

"I did on you. I used my billy on the others. My old M.P. billy."

"I see. Well, after the troopers, he came here an' smacked Aaron, thinkin' it was Jack. N'en he beat it. He wasn't around while the barn burned, though he may have been while the fire was bein' set, earlier."

Tim raised his eyebrows.

"Then he came back again," Asey said, "an' O'Malley and Shorty chased him an' some time during the interval, him an' me had our set-to. If you really want to go into it, we can take a pad an' time it out. But that's the way it all happened, an' it all fits."

"I must have been out a long time," Tim said.

"Nope, when you consider what you got hit with, an' the stump you landed on. You got to remember you was copin' with the pride of Comp'ny B."

"I see," Tim sounded dubious.

"But are you quite sure, Jennings, that you didn't fire the burn?"

"Fattin' On An Act"

"HONEST, I didn't. I smelled smoke later, but I thought it came from town. They'd been starting fires there. Asey, you believe me, don't you?"

"I'm inclined to," Asey said, "but I honestly don't know why. I guess you winnin' personality. I guess. Now, I got to get along. I'll see Pam before I—"

"What about me?" Lorne asked.

"Me, and my drawings, and my—my sufferings? And—"

"Just you consider them," Asey said, "the sufferin' of a true artist, an' thank God Jennings didn't do more than spank you."

"You defend the man?"

"I don't, but I know the part he played in this—"

"You defend him, you excuse him too many pills, or not enough, but he's been fretful and nervous—he's even been fussing about the clocks. I've called Dr. Cummings and told him to drop over before he finishes for the night. I'm worried."

"Pam," Jennings said, "I did it."

"What?"

"I hit him, but I didn't mean to. I thought it was Lorne. I didn't throw him down the stairs, he fell. And I'm awful sorry—can I fix you up with water and a bathroom, free—and the doctor's bills, and honest, I'm awful sorry," Jennings paused for breath. "Honest, I am."

Asey didn't know whether Pam was going to laugh or cry or just smack Jennings in the nose.

"Did you burn the barn?" she said at last.

"No, I didn't."

"Well—oh, damn, there's that phone, and I'll walk. Father—damn you, stop ringing!"

"Think she's mad?" Jennings whispered as Pam raced off to the phone.

"I think you're lucky," Asey said, "in havin' a reasonable woman to deal with—"

"It was for you, Asey," Pam said, coming back. "It was Elliott, and he wants you over at Roddy's. He didn't say what he wanted you for, but he said to hurry, and I said you would."

"Okay," Asey said. "You an' Jennings solve your problems. I'll be back here for the night—oh, have someone get me some clean clothes from home, will you? Phone Jennie or Syl."

Elliott was waiting for him at the driveway to the Strutt estate.

"They weren't lying," he said.

"They weren't putting on an act, Asey."

"You mean, Roddy has disappeared?" Asey said. "Well, maybe. But I've solved Jennings, and I know no manerger got hold of Roddy. He may have gone else-where, but he went of his own accord. You don't really think that Roddy is seriously missin', do you?"

"Well," Elliott said briefly, "he's dead, anyway."

DOUBLE-BARRELLED GRAND LARCENY

BARSON on BUSINESS

A NEW INDUSTRY IS BORN

Barson Says Center of Industry Drifting Southward

Chicago, June 24—A new industry is being born in the south.

At Lufkin, Texas, next month the ground will be broken for a newspaper mill. This will be the first mill making newspaper from southern pine. Its effect will be far-reaching. It will be another step in the industrialization of the New South. Low costs in the South will force northern newspaper makers to follow the trek of the textile mills toward the Gulf. Fast-growing southern pine will become a new major crop, possibly as important in the years to come as cotton is today. This is a significant event.

The South's great problem, even before the Civil War, was its one-crop economy. Cotton was king. When cotton prices were high or crops good, the South prospered. When cotton prices were low or crops failed, there were hard times below the Mason-Dixon Line. Southern editors and statesmen have patiently worked for decades teaching the lesson of farm diversification. Great progress has been made, particularly during the last 15 years, in the rounding-out of southern agriculture. Here in the Middle West, farm people are already alarmed by the inroads southern corn, beef, truck crops, and dairy products are making in their markets.

Industries Trek Southward

Meanwhile, there has been tremendous industrial progress. A big labor supply, the proximity to the cotton fields, good water-power combined with union troubles in the North, long ago forced New England textile mills to move to the Piedmont section of the Carolinas and Georgia. In more recent years, however, the migration of northern industries has broadened. From the northwestern and middlewestern states, other businesses have pulled stakes and moved toward the Gulf. Today the South is not only the cotton-textile center of the country but it has growing interests in iron and steel, and in pottery, in clothing, in chemicals, and in kraft paper.

The discovery of the great oil fields in Texas, Oklahoma, and Louisiana gave the South another hypodermic. With petroleum came a myriad of by-product industries and service businesses. The fast-growing sections of the United States today are in the oil regions of the South and Southwest. Furthermore, during the last decade the South has vigorously advertised its advantages as a vacation land. Hundreds of thousands of people now make an annual pilgrimage to Florida and the Gulf Coast, to Texas and Arkansas, to New Mexico and Arizona.

Such changes have been going on for years. During the last five years our huge export markets for cotton have been steadily dwindling. Each season the world takes less of our crop than it did the previous year. At the same time, Brazil, Egypt, and North China have become important cotton-growers. Moreover, the Sino-Japanese War means that we will eventually lose another major customer—Japan. Yet, while our overseas markets are becoming smaller, our crops are becoming larger. Our 1937 cotton pick was the largest in all history.

Neither the Department of Agriculture nor the New Deal can guarantee good prices for the South raises more cotton each year than this country, or the world, wants. Therefore, cotton acreage must be used for other products. This means the loss of jobs and livelihood for hundreds of thousands of field-hands and share-croppers. To add to the cotton crisis, mechanical cotton-pickers are going into use on more plantations each year. This means even less jobs for field-hands. Hence, not only must new uses be found for cotton, but new employment must be provided for cotton workers.

In the last few years, more and more attention has been focused on the huge slash pine forests of Dixie. The southern pine reaches maturity in about 15 years—twice as fast as the slow-growing northern softwoods. Because of this rapid growth of the southern pine, good forestry methods produce real results. Hence, foresters have been intensely interested in finding new uses for the pine. The question has been: Could not this southern pine be used for newsprint? If so, there would be a tremendous market. Last year, newspapers used nearly 4,000,000 tons of newsprint, about 80 per cent of which comes from the spruce of Canada.

It is a long way from Northern Ontario to Southern Texas. Costs of transportation are high. Southern newspaper publishers have insisted that slash pine could be developed into newsprint. Dr. Charles H. Herty, noted Georgia scientist, has been experimenting for years. At last, the end of the road is in sight. At Lufkin, Texas, about 60 miles from the western border of Louisiana, the ground will soon be broken for the first southern newsprint mill. As time goes on, I believe the newsprint industry will be a major factor in the growth of Dixie. Pine will some day take its place beside cotton, corn, and citrus as one of the major crops of the South.

More Industries Will Follow

With the cotton problem becoming more critical each year, the success of this new industry will be a great boon for the South. Moreover, I believe that newsprint will decay other industries southward. More chemical concerns will journey Gulfward. Rayon mills and automobile accessory companies will be the next in line. Modern roads, splendid transportation facilities, a good low-priced labor supply, a warm climate, rich natural resources, and progressive leaders mean that the center of industry will continue to drift South for many years to come. The South is an empire in itself—young, vigorous, growing. To the thousands and thousands of young people who have just graduated from schools and colleges, my advice is, "Go South!"

To Spend 2 Millions On Alsen Cement Plant

After having been shut down for many years the Alsen plant of the Lehigh Portland Cement Co. is to be rehabilitated and equipped with modern machinery, according to a statement credited to an official of the company. According to the Catskill Daily Mail it is estimated that about $2,000,000 will be spent on the plant.

Washington Daybook

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—It is quite possible that the more hectic incubations of the 75th Congress—the court fight, anti-lunching, reorganization—will be over-looked in the years to come and the session remembered longest for two comparatively obscure health acts.

One is the act creating the National Cancer Institute. The other is the measure launching a well-financed national campaign against syphilis and gonorrhea.

Such health bills often remain in the public mind. Frankly there are not many who offend can name another single act of the 1906 session of Congress, for instance, except a health measure.

It is recalled to the memory of millions by the simple little formula printed on so many bottles and cans. It goes something to the effect that the enclosed product is "made in compliance with the pure food and drugs act of 1906."

The Cancer Institute got an initial $750,000 for building and equipment. The syphilis and gonorrhea campaign got $400,000 for research and curative work. With almost exciting dispatch for a federal agency, it spent $200,000 of its first year's allowance for 10 grams of radium. That provided 20 units for distribution about the country to recognized cancer treatment institutions. It made radium treatment available to hundreds of cancer victims who otherwise never could have come within reach of an institution rich enough to buy the expensive stuff.

The remaining $400,000 goes to the venereal disease division of the bureau of public health for use largely in hunting new methods of diagnosing the diseases and in finding cures for them when identified.

Specific tests and specific cures for syphilis are known and widely used, although open to improvement. Gonorrhea, however, has been a medical stepchild, often ignored or frequently left to the ministrations of the least reputable physicians in a community. Badly needed are, first, a means of determining under varied conditions when the disease has been contracted and, second, and equally important, a test to show when the disease has been cured.

Lawrence of the University of California went $30,000 for continuing work on his cyclotron, which induces radium ray activity in such inert objects as common salt. Experiment must determine whether it is more effective in this form than from true radium.

Dr. Louis Feiler of Harvard has received $8,000 to continue his experiments with coal tar derivatives which have been found to cause cancer in mice. Finding a cause may help to disclose a cure. Cancer physicians are being trained in cancer treatment at government expense. Fellowships are granted to aid students to continue special lines of research.

The Social Disease Front

FOR treatment of syphilis and gonorrhea the legislation authorizes up to $3,000,000 a year. Of this, $2,800,000 goes to the states for use in providing laboratory facilities to aid physicians in diagnosing and treating the diseases and in publicizing the need of treatment.

The remaining $200,000 goes to the venereal disease division of the bureau of public health for use largely in hunting new methods of diagnosing the diseases and in finding cures for them when identified.

HUDSON RIVER STEAMBOATS

These articles are written from the collection of George W. Murdock, veteran marine engineer.

No. 43—Kaaterskill

The "Kaaterskill," with a Fletcher, Harriss & Company engine and a hull built by Van Lons & Magee, came into existence at Athens in 1882. She was 270 feet two inches in length, breadth of beam 38 feet, and had a net tonnage rating of 855. She was propelled by a vertical beam engine with 63 inch cylinders and a 13 foot stroke, and, incidentally, this engine was called the "Centennial" as it was the hundredth engine built by the New York firm.

The "Kaaterskill" was built for the Catskill and New York night line and was a sister ship of the "City of Catskill" constructed in broken steam pipe and one person 1880. She began her regular trips in August 1882 and being a bit larger and with more improvements than her sister ship, the "Kaaterskill" was the finest steamer built for that particular route. She was capable of fast speed, was beautifully furnished, and carried sleeping accommodations for 300 passengers besides having ample room for transporting freight.

In September of 1882, the "Kaaterskill" enroute to New York on her regular trip and at that moment in Kaaterskill Bay, suffered a serious mishap. As she was on her walking beam broke, causing the added strain to snap the connecting rod which in turn broke the steam pipe. Clouds of scalding steam came from the "City of Catskill" constructed in broken steam pipe and one person died from inhaling the steam and several others were scalded.

The "Kaaterskill" was repaired and placed on the route, running in line with the "Walter Brett" and the "Esport," until 1898 when a

Man About Manhattan

By George Tuckman

NEW YORK—Those who would compile an anthology of spicy fragments from old drinking songs would do well to consult the wine stewards of New York. These are the fellows with golden keys on silken cords who are dressed like ambassadors at the Court of St. James—silk knee breeches and white stockings, scarlet coats and a wise and knowing air.

They are always at your beck and call in the police restaurants and hotels in Gotham, and if you ask them they will place before you elegantly embossed wine lists, with a history of all the vintages, the good and the bad, from wines and brandies that are a hundred years old.

But I must confess the thing that intrigues me most is the presence of these fragments of verse which somehow adorn all wine lists. They are the utterances of wits, sages and philosophers who, down through the centuries, have hymned a song to the grape.

And from time to time I have been copying down various bits of verse. On page three of the wine list at one Fifth Avenue hotel is a refrain from our old pal Rabelais:

"Small gods has he, he's surely mad Who doth drink and is not glad."

Another, from a Broadway restaurant, are these lines from the Scot, Robert Burns:

"A man may drink and no be drunk;
A man may fight and no be slain;
A man may kiss a bonny lass
And ay, he's welcome back again."

It is on Lexington Avenue that you find this frank little utterance from Cervantes, the imaginative old codger who wrote "Don Quixote":

"I drink when I have the occasion,
And sometimes when I have no occasion."

And from a tavern in the Village, this from Chabrier:

"Come, let us drink; there's nothing
In being just a little mad."

And then there's Lord Byron, echoed from the wine list of a Sussex tavern, near Sheridan Square:

"Long life to the grape,
For when summer is down,
The age of our nectar
Shall gladden our own."

Most wine lists give a short history of the various vintages, or perhaps a listing of the years which are available. But there is one, written by a frank, honest fellow, which is so candid as to astonish guests. "This wine is very poor and not recommended," is one extract from it. Of another vintage it says: "Said to be very good with food, but in our opinion, overrated." Of another: "I have found this less than satisfactory."

Bullbaiting Popular in England Centuries Ago

The name bulldog was applied to the breed about 1850, but as early as 1410 the forerunners of the kind were described in English literature under the names of "alaunt" and "bandog." At that time the English mastiff and the bulldog had much in common.

Bullbaiting, from which practice or sport, if it can be called such, the breed obtained its name, was popular in England in the two centuries before 1835, when it was prohibited by law. The bulldog's part was to sink his teeth in the bull's nose, pull his head to the ground and hold it there until the victim roared, something which no bull worth the baiting was supposed to do immediately. Oddly enough, the meat from bulls which had been baited was considered to have a superior flavor and commanded a higher price.

As might be imagined, writes Larue P. Daniels in the Cleveland Plain Dealer, a dog used for such a purpose was not of too amiable a disposition. Around 1880 the original bulldog is said to have been crossed with the pug, giving him a shorter nose and a fine disposition. Constant development of the breed by fanciers who were attracted to the dog by his own fine qualities produced an animal that in spite of his ferocious aspect is perhaps the gentlest and most kindly of dogs.

The official standard as adopted by the Bulldog Club of America calls for a dog weighing from 40 to 50 pounds, with heavy, thick-set, low-slung body, massive short-faced head and sturdy limbs. He should suggest great stability, vigor and strength. He must be resolute, but kind and dignified.

Carlsbad Caverns' Bats

Discovered by a Cowboy

Curiosity of a desert cowboy as to the origin of what appeared to be a spiral of dark smoke led to the discovery in 1901 of the world's largest caverns 28 miles southwest of Carlsbad, N. M.

The "smoke spiral" proved to be a formation of bats—millions of them—coming from a natural arched opening in the earth. The "bat flight" is one of the spectacles at Carlsbad Caverns National park of which the "Big Room" of stalactites and stalagmites, 750 feet below the surface is nearly 4,000 feet long and 625 feet wide. It has an arched ceiling 300 feet at one point from the floor level.

The extent of the caverns has never been determined. Seven miles of corridors and chambers are open to visitors. Below the 750-foot level there is another vast apartment at 900 feet and a third at 1,230 feet. Visitors are taken only to the first level reached by trail and elevators.

Jacob Wolff Hurt In B'way Crash

Jacob Wolff, of 70 Smith Avenue, driver of one of the Gruenewald bakery trucks, was badly injured about 8 o'clock this morning when knocked down by an auto driven by Charles J. Westcott of 17 O'Neill street, and was removed to the Kingston Hospital in the Conner ambulance where an X-ray will be taken to ascertain the extent of the head injuries he sustained.

According to the police report Wolff had halted his truck in front of the Socony gas station on Broadway, opposite the Municipal Auditorium, and had just alighted from the truck to cross the street when he was struck by the car, and hurled to the pavement.

Wolff, according to the police, was struck on the head when he came into contact with one of the ventilator windows on the Westcott car.

Commencement Exercises Held at Accord School

The fourth annual commencement exercises of the Accord Grade School were held Wednesday evening in the basement of the Reformed Church. A large audience of relatives and friends gathered to enjoy the following program:

Play, "When Mother Went Away," graduating class of 1938; violin solo, Donald Lawrence; tap dance, girls; piano solo, Clyde Gaslay; salutatory address, Dorothy Lawrence; trumpet solo, Dorothy Lawrence; class play, "The Craft of Kingston; class play, "William Quick; violin solo, Eula Sahler; class will, Ray Coddington; piano solo, Roger Baer Schwarz; valedictory, Morris Sondak; presentation of diplomas and awards, Miss Rhinehart and Mrs. Lawrence.

The stage, a garden of seasonal flowers arranged by Mrs. Gross Schoonmaker, made a lovely setting for the six young graduates: Ella Mae Edwards, Dorothy Harriet Lawrence, Morris Sondak, Robert Quick, William Quick, Ray Coddington.

The graduating class, represented by Ella M. Edwards, presented Mrs. Josephine Lawrence, their teacher for the past eight years, with a gift by way of expressing their appreciation.

Strict Control at Border

Perpignan, France, June 24 (AP).—Reports of an outbreak of typhoid and foot and mouth disease in northern Catalonia, Spain, near Bourg Madame, caused French health authorities to clamp a strict control today on persons crossing the border. Spanish reports said an outbreak of typhoid already had caused the illness of several thousand persons.

KERNONKSON

Kernonkson, June 23.—Sunday school at the M. E. Church will be at 10 a. m. There will be no morning service as everyone is invited to attend the baccalaureate service at the local high school.
Evening service at 8 o'clock, the Rev. Mr. Achterkirch in charge.
Wednesday evening, June 23, at 8 o'clock, an evening of music will be given by the Rev. and Mrs.
Lacour on their xylophone marimba. Tickets may be had from Epworth League members.
There will be no Sunday school or morning service in the Reformed Church on Sunday, as all are planning to attend the baccalaureate service at the high school rad-itorium.
Many new things have been added to the church within the past two weeks. On Sunday, June 12, the Sunday school presented hymn books to be used both in Sunday school and church service. During the week the Ladies' Aid members added new curtains to the dining room and many new articles to the kitchen, and Sunday for the first time the pastor, the Rev. Mr. Schadevald, wore the new gown given by several ladies.
Mrs. Charles Stokes returned to her home Sunday after spending some time in Boston with relatives. Mr. Stokes' daughter, Abigail, and Miss Sniffen motored to Boston over the week-end and Mrs. Stokes returned with them.
Mr. and Mrs. Fred Strickland were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Roosa, Rosendale.
Friends of Fred Molan will be sorry to learn of his death Wednesday. Mr. Molan was employed at the Kernonkson and formerly boarded with Mr. and Mrs. William Brown of this place.
Miss Jennie Doyle, of Somerville, N. J., is spending her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Doyle.
Miss Ruth Murray of Schenectady is also visiting the week at the Doyle home.
Mrs. Andrew Terwilliger and Mrs. Margaret Van Elten were Ellenville shoppers on Saturday.
Mr. and Mrs. Ed Flatard entertained a few callers from New York city Saturday evening.
Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Green, of Poughkeepsie and Mr. and Mrs. E.
Bennett of Walden, were callers on Sunday at the home of Adelbert Sheldon.
Mrs. Charles Keeny and daughter, Vera, returned home from a three-weeks' visit in New Jersey, Sunday. Mr. Keeny motored down for her and spent the week-end.
Mrs. Keeny is entertaining her nephew from New Jersey for a few days.
Clayton Sheldon of Walden, N. Y., spent Sunday with his mother,
Mrs. Goldie Sheldon.
Miss Frances Schoonmaker and Miss Marie Miller, both of Poughkeepsie, spent Tuesday with the former's mother, Mrs. Minnie Schoonmaker.
Mr. and Mrs. James Grant were Sunday guests of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Osterhout, in South Fallsburgh.
Miss Marjorie Lane injured her arm and leg one day last week, riding a bicycle near her home. Dr. Feldsbeek treated the wounds.
Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Munson entertained Friday evening last week, Mr. and Mrs. James R.
Doyle and Mr. and Mrs. James
Grant to dinner.
Several members of Volunteer Firemen attended a special meeting at Clintondale, Tuesday evening.
Mrs. F. Riddell and two children of Millington, N. J., spent a week with her son, Jack Riddell.
Mr. and Mrs. E. Proper and family spent the week-end with relatives upstate.
Mr. and Mrs. Ed Flatard entertained Thursday, Mr. and Mrs.
Bud Anderson and daughter and Geo. Flatard of Brooklyn. On their return Friday they were accompanied by Mrs. R. Flahaven and son, who spent two weeks with her parents here.
Mrs. Katie Schoonmaker was a visitor at the home of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs.
Grant Schoonmaker in Nanapanoch
for a few days.
Levi Terwilliger, of Ohioville, is visiting his daughter, Mrs. Eli Addis, and son, Jacob Terwilliger and family.

Hollywood

Sights And Sounds
By Rabble Cook

HOLLYWOOD—Movietown's reputation as a center of unpredictable ironies should be enhanced by the story of Kay Francis' recent picture.
Kay was one of the famous list of "hot-office poison" names put out by those eastern exhibitors. A complicity of years ago she rated very well indeed. What probably started her decline was an epic called
"The White Angel." In gratitude for her consistent drawing power, her studio put forth its most supercolossal efforts—big production, big exploitation campaign, big budget, big director, "The White Angel" (need it be said?)
was not Kay Francis' most profitable picture.
Some weeks ago the star, to work out her contract, was assigned to a couple of minor pictures. She was "in the doghouse" as far as the studio was concerned, but she didn't balk at what they handed her to do. One of those pictures, recently finished, is "My Bill."

Good News
It didn't cost much. It isn't a big-name picture. But it is likely to be a surprise hit. And wouldn't it be funny if Kay's "doghouse" picture clicked where a super-super couldn't? And funnier if they wanted Kay to keep on making pictures after her marriage this fall? And still funnier if Kay said
"No, thanks?"
That, strangely, is what she would be apt to reply. Judging only by her past indifference to all the things that keep the average star in a whirl—unpaid criticisms, publicity and the outward trappings of stardom—Miss Francis will be happy to take her pile of picture money and say goodbye to the screen.

Kiwanis Club

Enjoyed Movies

Kiwanis, meeting Thursday for the weekly session, was entertained by the showing of several reels of motion pictures. George Matthews had charge of this portion of the program when Kiwanians were treated to the same interesting and entertaining "movies"
which Rotary saw on Wednesday.
The films were taken in Alaska, showing the picturesque nature of this northern country and also showed the salmon industry, one of the major industries of the country.
President Zucca presented guests from Elyria, Ohio, and Jersey City.
William Byrne postponed his report on the Inter-City Club meeting at Beacon until the next meeting. The meeting was held Wednesday night at Beacon.

Blossom Movies at

The show will feature reels of motion pictures, in full color, of the recent activities of the Ulster County Apple Blossom Festival, particularly portraying the historical significance of southern Ulster county. These films were taken and edited by Ralston Munson of Kingston. Other reels will deal with marine and rail transportation, and regular comics.

Humanity Day Here a Success

Dr. Joseph Rosenberg, chairman of the local committee appointed by Col. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., to collect funds on "Humanity Day" to aid suffering Chinese civilians, has received a personal letter from Col. Theodore Roosevelt thanking him for his service as local chairman and also expressing the thanks and appreciation to the mayor of Kingston, the various committees who served and the newspapers for their support. He as well as Mr. Rosenberg express their thanks to all those who contributed to the cause and Dr. Rosenberg stated that any further contributions should be sent directly to the Red Cross which is continuing a drive for funds for medical aid, food and relief for non-combatants.

In Kingston the drive on "Humanity Day" was a success in every way and the funds collected have been turned over by Dr. Rosenberg to the National Committee. Dr. Rosenberg also expressed his thanks to workers who solicited funds.

Sundown Stories

By Mary Graham Bonner
Willy Nilly's Voice

SWEET FACE was so pleased with his prank, so amused at the mystery he had caused in the school house that he could hardly keep his gleaming laugh to himself. He kept looking at them through the open window, but as none of them came near the window they did not see him. He kept himself hidden enough for that.

But now he wanted to see their faces better than he had and he walked over to get an empty box that he saw. He would put that by the window and stand on it. It was just large enough.

He was turning the box over and standing on it when he heard a voice.

"What are you doing, Sweet Face? Do you want to go to school? Are you anxious to learn reading and writing and geography?" It was Willy Nilly's voice. The little man was driving along the road.

"Hush," bleated Sweet Face as softly as he could.

But the voices had reached the ears of the teacher. She went to the window and looked out. There stood the lamb on the box.

"Why you dear little lamb," said the teacher.

"Come, children," she called. "As long as we are delayed so much you might as well have a look at this lamb."

She was really very nice, both to him and to the children, thought Sweet Face. He smiled in his best lambish fashion.

"Why that's the lamb we saw the other day," said a child.

"He couldn't have understood us, not possibly," said another.

"Oh yes, he could have understood you," said Willy Nilly, who had jumped out of his car. "What in the world is happening?"

Tomorrow—"All is Clear."

UAW Conference Called
Detroit, June 24 (AP)—The presidents of four Detroit locals of the United Auto Workers of America today called a conference in an attempt to work out a middle-of-the-road policy that might settle the bitter factional fight in the union. Telegrams were sent to Presidents of 35 other Detroit locals asking them to attend a conference Saturday afternoon.

Pittsburgh Conference
Pittsburgh, June 24 (AP)—The publishers of Pittsburgh's two afternoon newspapers, their negotiations with striking office workers ended in agreement, arranged another meeting with craft union representatives today in an effort to start idle presses rolling.

MODES of the MOMENT

By ADELAIDE KERR

Frosty Fashions

Frosty white is a big note in summer fashions. This frock of white rayon crepe, designed with a pleated skirt and topped with a bolero, is worn with color accents. The long fringed ends on the girdle are blue, red and white, while the hat band and boutonniere are blue.

Heaney Re-elected At Convention of Valley Firemen

At the Hudson Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association convention in Hudson Thursday, John A. Heaney of 14 Brown avenue, Kingston, was re-elected as the vice president representing Ulster county. This is the second term as a vice president from Ulster for Mr. Heaney who is very active in matters firemanic.

Chief Chris Noll of the Poughkeepsie Fire Department, in being elected secretary, was installed for his 22nd term, having first taken up the duties of the office in 1917 and has been chosen every year since.

Next year the convention will be held at Catskill, the home of President Edward M. Henderson, who last year served as first vice president. Following the elections, there was a clambake.

Pet Robin Dies

Schenectady, N. Y., June 24 (AP)—Peep, the six-weeks old pet robin that hiccoughed for 12 days, is dead. Although Mrs. J. W. Ham, temporary owner of the bird, said it died a natural death, she added that she was convinced the hiccoughing hastened the end last night.

Retail Trade Gains

New York, June 24 (AP)—Retail trade at leading centers of distribution this week averaged 2 per cent above last week for the nation as a whole, but lagged 1.2 to 2.2 per cent under the like 1937 week. Dun & Bradstreet reported today. Wholesale buying was unchanged from a week ago, and 10 to 22 per cent under last year.

For Over New York Harbor

New York, June 24 (AP)—For over New York harbor for the third successive day prevented ocean liners from docking and held more than 2,000 passengers from European and cruise ports fitfully scanning the haze. Forty-boats, however, were only slightly delayed in their schedules.

Agreement With Carpet Company. New York, June 24 (AP)—J., covering some 2,000 persons. He said the contract continues satisfactory relations established between the union and the carpet company last year.

Stocks Continue Important Gains

New York, June 24 (AP).—Buyers got behind the stock market again today and, for the fifth consecutive session, pushed leaders up 1 to more than 2 points before encountering important profit selling resistance.

Overnight orders for selected rails and industrials flooded board rooms and, during the first hour, the ticker tape was almost continuously as much as 4 minutes in arrears. There was a subsequent let-down in activity and top marks were halved in many cases. Prices then hardened but once more gave ground near the final call. Transfers were the rate of about 2,000,000 shares.

The feverish buying that swept over the list at the start was exemplified by the fact that from 10 to 11 o'clock the turnover amounted to $20,000,000, the largest for this period since October 28, last, when the aggregate was 1,050,000 shares.

Conspicuous on the forward list were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Anaconda, Kennecott, American Smelting, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Southern Railway, Southern Pacific, Westinghouse, DuPont, Allied Chemical, Union Carbide, Standard Oil of N. J., and American Telephone.

TRouble IN SHOE TRADE HITS LYNN

City Once Proud First Lady of Leather Business.

Washington, D. C.—The threat which became news of nine shoe manufacturers of Lynn, Massachusetts, either to liquidate their holdings or move out, calls attention to a troubled modern industry that was once the leader in its field and a model followed by the world.

Domestic and foreign competition, falling markets, and friction inside the factories have been blamed for the sickness that has come upon this trade that made Lynn famous, a business that now employs about 3,500 workers where 10,000 were formerly kept busy.

"As far back as 1793," recalls the National Geographic society, "Lynn turned out 300,000 pairs of shoes. Well-established by then, shoe-making was industry Number One both in origin and in importance."

"Settled in 1639, Lynn received its town charter in 1681. Four years later a couple of skilled shoemakers moved in near a tannery already set up, and went to work.

"Geographical and other factors made this part of the country ideal for the craft. Useful in tanning processes were the nearby forests of hemlock and oak. Swift-flowing streams provided water power. New England fisheries furnished oil to soften the leather. And Yankee shipbuilders were soon to develop a seaborne trade with the West coast destined to bring shiploads of hides to waiting workmen."

Lynn Was Supreme.

"Boston and other towns took up the art; but Lynn was supreme, especially in the field of women's shoes. By the end of the Eighteenth century she counted among her citizens some 200 master craftsmen, with 600 journeymen and apprentices.

"Export trade expanded, in response to demand—the growing country. 'Massa, etts,' wrote Baron Dupin to the king in the thirteenth of the nineteenth century, 'makes by millions boots and shoes necessary for the new population which is developed with so much rapidity in the immense basin of the Mississippi.'

"Until the Civil war, the skilled workman, with his awl, hammer and lapstone, was the acknowledged Titan of this anciently-known 'gentle craft.'

"Around that time, however, forces came into play that were eventually to reduce the shoe craftsman to the status of mere machine tender. Elias Howe's sewing machine ushered in an age of invention for the art that had changed little in all the preceding centuries. Within a short time men brought more than a hundred old hand-operations under machine control, and paved the way for still other improvements. In addition, enormous impetus to the new machine era was provided by the war itself, which brought the sudden, urgent demand for shoes to equip marching armies.

Prediction by Lincoln.

"There is a story that Mayor Peter Neal of Lynn explained to President Lincoln that one of the new machines could sew around the edge of a shoe in 30 seconds.

"'Friend Neal,' remarked Mr. Lincoln, 'go home and buy real estate. The day of the little country shops is coming to an end. Shoes will be made in big factories in cities.'

"With the ensuing change in methods, resulting inevitably in human displacement and social distress, came friction and strikes. But Lynn carried on under the new system, and remained—until toward the end of the Nineteenth century—the country's leading shoe center. King Edward VII of England had his shoes

Indians Move Village on Their Shoulders

Bella Cools, B. C.—Coming off second best in two encounters with the Bella Cools river since 1933, an Indian village here picked up its bed and baggage and walked, rowed and drove to the southern and higher side of the Bella Cools river.

With the assistance of the department on Indian affairs, the Indians gouged a new townsite out of the forest and moved in.

The villagers numbered about 250 and earn their living by fishing, trapping and logging.

Georgians Build Fence Around Village of 1,500

Homerville, —In effect this town of 1,500 men is known as the walled city of Homerville. They're not to build a wall, but they are to build a fence to enclose the city.

It started this way: Homerville had a cow problem, that is, the cows wouldn't stay out of the flowerbeds. So, after due deliberation, Mayor G. C. Hughes announced: "We're going to build a fence around the whole town—as a beautification move."

The question of the eight roads that lead into Homerville will be taken care of by installation of stock gates.

College Professor Notes Some Much Abused Words

Evanson, Ill.—Chalk up one vote each for "thing" and "ain't" as the most abused English words.

Prof. Walter K. Smart of Northwestern university nominates these words for first place and among other overworked words lists: In business—"propagation," "women"—"awfully, terribly," and similar words.

"Among writers—"so."

Professor Smart picks "no" as the most helpful word, "stop" as the most dramatic and "ubiquitous" as the ugliest.

Meaneest Man Pours Glue Into Gas Tank

Cincinnati, Ohio.—A new candidate for the title of the "world's meanest man" was discovered here when James Louis, twenty-nine, negro, was sentenced to serve ten days in the workhouse for pouring glue into the gas-line tank of a neighbor's automobile.

A MILLION DOLLARS HITCH-HIKED when three officers of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis—on their way to Washington to present check to President Roosevelt (seated)—had tire trouble near Peekskill, N. Y., and "thumbed" a lift with a passing motorist. The check, for $1,010,000, represents proceeds from nationwide "birthday balls" and "Math of Dimes" and will be used in fight against dread infantile paralysis. Left to right: Basil O'Connell, foundation president; Averill Harriman, Dr. Leroy Hubbard, Clay Williams, Keith Morgan, birthday ball chairman.

Shoot for Ulster Gun Club Skeet Champion July 17

July 17 will be a gala day at the Ulster County Gun Club. On that Sunday members of the club will compete for the arm brand that designates the champion for 1938. It will be a 100-target event and it is expected that competition will be exceptionally keen. Some of the new members have been doing excellent shooting and will be up in the front ranks at this year's championship contest.

Registered Trap Shoot
The third registered trap shoot of the season will be held at the club's 16-yard range on Monday, July 4. The fact that this shoot will be conducted on a holiday is a large gathering of trapshooters from the county and vicinity is expected.

The usual program of events is scheduled. Trapshooters are invited and spectators welcome.
Thursday's Skeet
The weekly skeet shoot was held at the Ulster County Gun Club range Thursday afternoon with six gunners trying their skill. Ed Smith did the best shooting with scores of 23 and 18 for 41 out of 50 targets.

The scores:
Ed Smith 23+18=41
F. Koenig 20+19=39
R. Coles 18+17=35
G. Dixon 13+15=28
N. Bruck 21

State Trap Shoot Today Upstate

Johnsonville, N. Y., June 24 (AP).—The state's outstanding gunners took over this Rensselaer county village today, but they were trapshooters, not racketeers. Here for the three-day trap shooting tournament of the New York State Sportsmen's Association, they came from all sections of the state to vie for cash prizes and the state championship.

Track Tryouts for The Olympic Team

Chicago, June 24 (AP).—Final tryouts for the United States Olympic track team will be held on the west coast. The track committee of the American Olympic Association reached this decision in a meeting with President Avery Brundage last night, but did not name the date of a site. The basketball committee announced both a national collegiate and an open tournament would be held. Winners will be assured a place on the final Olympic team selections.

Harvard Crew and Yale Race Tonight
New London, Conn., June 24 (AP).—Yale and Harvard, foes on land and water since the stone age of American college sport, renew their oldest rivalry tonight when their varsity crews meet on the Thames river. More than the usual assortment of yachts and pleasure craft will be on hand to watch the four-mile varsity race at 6:10 p. m.

To midget auto race fans: Word comes from Nutley, N. J., that Paul Russo of Chicago added to his point standings lead for the season in the vededrome races with his fifth victory of the series in the five mile feature. . . . Red Redmond of Atlanta, Ga., escaped injury when his car overturned in a crash with Ernie Gesell of Hollis, L. I., three laps from the finish. . . . Legion Speedway at Woodstock has a program of midgets slated for Sunday. . . . There are plenty of thrills watching the junior rockets whirl around the artist colony course. . . . A crowd of spectators is expected.

For the Poughkeepsie regatta enthusiasts: Starting time of the races—Freshman, 3:45. . . . Junior varsity, 4:45. . . . Varsity, 5:45. . . . The races will start at Krum Elbow and end a half mile below the state highway suspension bridge at Poughkeepsie. . . . Estimates are that 100,000 spectators will witness the events. . . . President Roosevelt will be among them. . . . Right now, the city of Poughkeepsie is decorated in gay colors and flags and banners cross the main street. . . . Kingston will be represented in this year's feature on the famous Hudson. . . . Gus Schatzel of Brewster street is rowing with the Columbia Jayvees.

Church Softball League

The Comforters had an easy time of it with the Wurts Street Baptist softballers last night at Loughran Park, beating the downtowners by the score of 31-0.

Led by Chet Barth who pounded out four home runs and a triple, all the Comforter members did some heavy hitting. Parsells, starting hurler for the losers, was rather wild in spots and his support buckled behind him so that he retired in the fourth in favor of Gil Barnhardt who tossed the remainder of the game. Nestell was the catcher. The Comforters backed up Hank Elgeway's four-hit pitching with air-tight support, and only one Baptist hitter reached third base.

GRANGE NEWS

Stone Ridge
Stone Ridge, June 24 — The Grange meeting in the Grange hall Monday evening, known as "Neighbor's Night," was largely attended. Delegates were present from Rosendale and New Paltz Granges. The Rosendale Grange gave a most interesting program consisting of a solo by Mrs. Charles Hasbrouck and a patriotic drill by 13 young ladies, which included a tap dance by Miss Van Arsdale, one of the younger members. The program of the evening continued with patriotic songs and readings. A most interesting talk on "Our Flag" was given by the Rev. August Marlier. Charles Neff spoke very effectively on "Neighborhood." Announcement was made of an entertainment and dance to be held in the Grange hall Friday evening, July 8, under the auspices of the service and hospitality committee, of which Mrs. Stanley Roosa is chairman.

Lake Katrine
Lake Katrine, June 23.—Nearly 40 members participated in one of the most interesting outings here when with Worthy Deputy Story and two guests, Miss Beatrice Gullian and brother R. Gullian from Ulster Grange, the Second Degree was given in full form. Worthy Master Osterhadt welcomed the visitors and the new members, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Johnson of Saugerties and Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Bowers of Kingston. Worthy Deputy gave an inspiring talk on 100 per cent Granges and on outlie of Grange ideals. He also recommended and advised organizing a Juvenile Grange.

The program was as follows: Welcome song, Grange; Reading, Ceres; Mrs. Anley Roosa; Reading, Annual Rites to Ceres; Katherine Shiel; Song, "He That Goeth Forth" Grange; Reading, Faith; Mrs. Harry D'Algie; Tableaux, True Faith, Myron Boice and Mrs. Sallie; Reading, News briefs, Dan Morehouse; Reading, Another Laugh, Mrs. Donald Parrish; Song, Parting Hymn, Grange.

Several beautiful bouquets were exhibited and Mr. and Miss Gullian, served as judges and awarded first to Mrs. Pratt Boice, second, Mrs. William Hookey, and third to Mrs. Ralph Hummel. Mrs. Hookey, chairman of the Service and Hospitality committee reported $7 realized from sale of plants and thanked all the members who attended the cleaning bee at the hall last week.

She will have charge of the lecture hour at the next meeting, which will be held July 18.

The members who will serve for both July and August are: Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Parrish, Mr. and Mrs. Anley Roosa, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lyke, Mr. and Mrs. George Adams, the Misses Jane Nichols and Marjorie Morehouse, George Shell, George McKeon and William Lowits.

A salad supper was enjoyed at the close of the meeting and in honor of Charles Van Etten's birthday a huge birthday was brought in with candles lighted, while everyone sang "Happy Birthday to You." Mr. Van Etten is a charter member and has always taken an intensive interest in the Grange work.

Patron.
Accord, June 24.—The Patron Grange will hold its next meeting Tuesday, June 28 instead of Monday, June 27. This change was made so as not to conflict with the commencement exercises at Kerhonkson High School, Monday, June 27.

Carle, Girl Tell Abduction Story

to free herself and hurrying back to Carle untied him and the two set out for the Burger residence in the vicinity.
Housed the Burgers
As they reached the Burger home young Carle aroused the family with his knocks on the door and Mr. Burger opened the door and found the couple.
Mr. Burger's wife furnished the girl with some clothing so that she could return home, while Carle borrowed a flashlight and getting back on the Saugerties road flagged a truck which took him as far as the East Chester street by-pass where he halted an auto and was driven to the home of State Trooper Arthur Reilly, where he told his story.

Police Notified
Trooper Reilly immediately put in a telephone call to the Kingston police and furnished the police with a description of the man as given by the youth. The alarm was sent out on the radio and a city-wide search was started, which was still in full swing today.
True to his word the abductor had driven into Kingston and parked the Carle car within a few doors from where it was taken. The car was later found there undamaged.

Said He Knew Girl
According to Carle and the girl the abductor had said to the girl "I know you, and I have had my eye on you for a long time. Now

Will Give Address At Baptist Church

REV. JOHN P. DAVIES

The Rev. John P. Davies of Kinkwa, East China, will speak on Sunday at the morning service of the Albany Avenue Baptist Church.

Mr. Davies was born in Cleveland, O., and received his college training at Western Reserve University and Oberlin College. He was a student volunteer and was appointed to missionary service in China in 1905. He has served at different periods in West China, at Shanghai, and is now located at Kinkwa, where he is soon to return after a furlough in this country. He has a very interesting story to tell of his work in China and of the present unhappy conditions in that part of the world. Those who wish to hear about China from one who has lived there for over 40 years will certainly enjoy his interesting message on Sunday morning.

RAGMAN SELLS ART GEMS FOR NICKEL
Finds Difficulty in Disposing of Van Goghs.
Amsterdam.—A rag-and-bone man named Couvreur from the town of Breda, in southern Holland, has revealed why so few canvases of Vincent van Gogh have been found. This Dutch painter, who ended his tragic life a lunatic, was a prolific producer during his younger years, although his fame is based on the genius he showed during the latter years of his short life.

Thirty-five years ago, Couvreur relates, on a cobble-stoned street of Breda he was loading his hand-cart with odds and ends he had bought from a carpenter who asked him as a favor to take away some rubbish. He explained it was cluttering up his loft, where he had stored it after it had been left behind by a painter who had lived there for some time.

Traded Some for Beer.
Couvreur obliged the carpenter and took away two car-loads of the "rubbish," chiefly paintings and drawings, all signed "Van Gogh" or "V. G." or sometimes only with a "V." or a "G."

"I used to have a stand," Couvreur told newspaper men, "a couple of days each week in the local market. I tried to sell the paintings. Nobody wanted them, although I offered them as cheaply as ten Dutch cents apiece (about .05).
"I sometimes gave them to children to play with. It took me 30 years to get rid of the stuff. Sometimes I traded them at local pubs for a glass of beer, although the innkeepers were not all keen about them."

Got 35 Cents Apiece for Six.
"A couple of years ago somebody must have heard about my paintings, because a local art dealer sent around a man to buy all I had left at ten Dutch cents apiece. I had only six left. Somehow I sensed there was a demand for them and refused to sell them so cheaply. In the end I got 35 cents for each painting."

"Now I realize I could have become a rich man had I known the meaning of the name Van Gogh. My son, however, has kept two of the paintings and probably he can make a little money out of them."

Drafts 10 Commandments for Personal Success

Boston.—Ten commandments to personal success, of which the first is "be yourself," were outlined by Dean Everett W. Lord, of Boston university's college of business administration.
They were:
1. Be yourself. Analyze your personality, cultivate the desirable—repress the undesirable.
2. Be alert. Look for opportunities to express yourself.
3. Be positive. Determine your goal and the route to it.
4. Be systematic. Take one step at a time.
5. Be persistent. Hold to your course.
6. Be a worker. Work your brain more than your body.
7. Be a student. Know your job.
8. Be fair. Treat the other man as you would be treated.
9. Be temperate. Avoid excess in anything.
10. Be confident. Have the faith that cannot be weakened.

Bridge Arches Different in Size
Have you ever seen a bridge in which each arch was a different size? There is such a bridge in Biddeford, North Devon, says London Answers Magazine. It spans the River Torridge. The bridge was built by public subscription, and the arches are sized according to the subs from different localities. The arch representing a generous locality would therefore be larger than that of a less open-handed neighbor. Or so local legend has it.

Kingston: "You and Me," starring Sylvia Sydney and George Raft, supported by Barton MacLane, Harry Carey and Roscoe Karns.
Broadway: "Kidnaped," that story adapted from Robert Louis Stevenson's book by the same name, featuring Warner Baxter and Freddie Bartholomew. On the stage is "Dr. Richard Sylvers, the Mental Marvel."
Orpheum: Double feature—"King of Newsboys" and "Stage Coach Days." Lew Ayers and Helen Mack are the stars of the first picture, and Jack Ludin, the second.

Tomorrow
Kingston: Same. Also "It Happened One Night," starring Clark Gable, as the return cinema by request.
Broadway: "Vivacious Lady" with Ginger Rogers and James Stewart in a story about a vivacious night club singer and a serious young college professor in love. "March of Time" featuring racketeers against housewives. Orpheum: Same.
